

Our client, the Swiss Institute for Translational and Entrepreneurial Medicine in Bern or sitem-insel AG is looking for a Chief Business Officer. Based on the vision of “bringing innovation to the patient – by connecting people,” sitem-insel AG aims to promote and facilitate research collaboration and business partnerships between industry, universities, clinicians, regulatory bodies, and investors in Switzerland. Building upon its successful progress as a world-renowned institution since its incorporation in 2014, sitem-insel AG plans to further expand its business areas.

Chief Business Officer (f/m/d)

The position:

The candidate will be a member of sitem-insel AG management board and is expected to contribute to the diversification of business areas, the promotion of economic independence and viability, the enhancement of the institution’s visibility and reputation internationally, and the strategic development of the institution’s long term objectives. As Chief Business Officer, the candidate will lead the business unit of the “Enabling Facilities” platform of sitem-insel AG. The candidate will assume responsibility for further improving the in-house platforms of the state-of-the-art research facility. Primarily responsible for business development, the candidate will be tasked to establish contact with decision makers working for national and international centres of expertise, companies and technology partners, will promote cooperation with the existing community, and further enhance sitem-insel AG’s reputation.

Profile:

The Chief Business Officer has the following background/aptitudes:

- A university degree
- Successful track record of business development in life science (medtech, medicine, healthcare, biotech, and/or pharmaceutical)
- Excellent communication skills and proficiency in business writing
- Experience with lean management
- Experience in working with a team of talented professionals from different cultures sitem-insel AG is located on Campus of the University Hospital of Bern (Inselspital). The strategic location brings together world-renowned clinicians, innovative researchers, and dedicated professionals. The position offers you the unique opportunity to implement your creative entrepreneurial ideas in a vibrant business environment and work at the forefront of innovation in medicine and healthcare.
